

Zomato Review – Afreen Ansari

Website: Zomato

Link: <https://www.zomato.com/review/zPvEMn>

Ansari Afreen

@a2afreen

Mumbai

Digital Marketer | Food & Travel Blogger | Foodie| Wanderer | Traveller | Email:afreen.199@gmail.com

dresseattravelrepeat.wordpress...

Follow

13 CONNOISSEUR

1 NEIGHBOURHOOD

Lower Panel

Dineline
Reviews	132
Photos	3281
Followers	6264
Bookmarks	14
Been There	138
Community Blog

Ansari Afreen

132 Reviews , 6264 Followers

yesterday

RATED 4.5 The only thing good about summers is Mango. Mango in various forms, dishes and desserts, totally makes for a Mango world. When I heard that my favorite buffet restaurant chain has started the Mango Mania food festival from 30th April to 15th May. I couldn't hold myself and visited the nearest outlet of Nerul. The outlet was full by 7:30 on a Sunday evening.

The outlet has two kinds of seating, on the inside and the outside. They have an open bar on the right from where you enter, next to which is the ice cream live counter. The Pani Puri live counter is on the outside. After settling down, we were served Kachi Kairi which was a mix of Raw mango, coriander and ice to refresh you before the meal.

From the Mango Mania festival, we started with the following starters:

Thai Fish with Mango

Raw Mango Stuffed Mushroom

Amchuri Pineapple

BBQ sweet chilli Kairi

Chilli Garlic Prawns

Singapurian Chicken

Mutton Mango Seekh Kebab (This tasted almost like the normal one)

Most of the starters had a hint of raw Mango or Mango flavor, which was nice and not too overpowering, the kind that did enhance the taste, without spoiling the flavours of these starters.

There was a wide variety of options available in the main course for Mango lovers too, like there was Mangshor Jhol, Mango Kofta Curry, Peas Mango Pulao and Mango Daal.

